

African Crash Kills 111

No Americans Are Aboard British Plane

YAOUNDE, Cameroon (AP)—Rescue parties reached the charred wreckage of a chartered British airliner in a swamp near Douala today and found all 111 persons aboard dead.

It was Africa's worst air crash and the fourth worst disaster recorded in aviation history.

Witnesses said the four-engine DC7C seemed to make a normal takeoff for Europe in a light rain Sunday night, then suddenly plummeted into a swamp less than two miles from the airport at Douala, largest city in the West African republic of Cameroon.

The plane exploded on impact and burned fiercely.

The plane carried 101 passengers—among them three children—en route from South Africa, Rhodesia and Mozambique to Europe. It had a crew of 10, including three hostesses.

The passengers included 42 Britons, many of them living in Rhodesia, 40 South Africans, and a sprinkling of Dutch, Germans, Danes, Australians, Irish and Italian. The nationality of three passengers was not known, but the airline said it knew of no Americans aboard.

Rescue efforts during the night were hampered by darkness and the swampy terrain.

The worst previous crash in Africa was that of an Air France Super Constellation in which 79 were killed in the Sahara on May 10, 1961.

The propeller-driven airliner crashed after leaving the Portuguese colony of Mozambique. Its destination was Luxembourg but most of the passengers were bound for Britain. It had been chartered by another British outfit, Trans-African Air Coach Ltd. Caledonian Airways, with offices in Prestwick, Scotland, went into operation last December after leasing two Douglas DC7Cs, from Sabena, the Belgian airline, to form the nucleus of a charter fleet.

Warning On Insecticide Use Indoors

Sedalia sanitation inspector Ralph Carrel today warned Sedalians and others in this Central Missouri area against the improper use of an insecticide, called lindane, found in some insect-killing apparatuses.

Carrel said he has seen advertisements in newspapers from other cities, offering for sale for indoor use a fly killing apparatus containing lindane crystals, which when exposed to heat give off a vapor to kill the flies.

The inspector noted a report from the Food and Drug Administration, which after exhaustive tests proved that the lindane vapor, when confined to a closed room, could become toxic to people. The tests showed that the vapors, when used inside in a heavy concentration, would penetrate some of the heaviest food coverings in normal use. The report noted that the vapors could penetrate the heavy wax paper used for bread wrapping.

Carrel noted that the use of lindane-containing sprays, vapors or other products would be harmless, because the concentration would not become too heavy, when used outside.

He further explained that there are several other chemicals, just as effective against insects, that can be used safely inside.

Carrel, who inspects the city's restaurants, cafes and other food-serving or food handling establishments, said he has already warned all of these firms about the lindane-containing apparatus, and they have all agreed to not use such apparatus in their establishments.

Carrel added that he felt the people themselves should be warned in order to prevent a possible death from the toxic vapor concentrations.

'Blue Laws' Violation Charge Filed

Prosecuting Attorney J. R. Fritz filed the first charges of violation of the Missouri "Blue Laws" to be filed in Pettis County in Magistrate Court Monday morning.

Three charges of violation of the law against Sunday sales of non-essential items were filed against Martin Singleton, Singleton's Trading Post, on Highway 65 just south of the Sedalia City limits.

Fritz said that he and Sheriff Emmett Fairfax, acting on reports that the establishment was not complying with the law against sale of certain items on Sunday, were parked near the establishment Sunday, watching customers enter and leave the place.

They stopped three customers carrying items banned for Sunday sale, and the customers admitted they bought the items in Singleton's. Fairfax then had the warrants issued for Singleton's arrest.

Singleton appeared in Magistrate Court Monday morning and made a release bond of $50 on each charge for a total bond of $150. Date for the preliminary hearing has not been set.

Charge Sedalian In Murder Of German Woman

BAD KREUZNACH, Germany (AP)—Two American soldiers have been charged with the premeditated murder of a middle-aged German prostitute, a military spokesman said today.

The spokesman said the charges were brought against Pvt. John W. Nogle, 21, of Central Valley, Calif., and James L. Hays, 22, of Sedalia, Mo.

The men were arrested following the death of Barbara Hummel, 53, identified by German police as a prostitute, and had been held since in the U. S. Army's stockade at Mannheim.

The woman was found dead with her throat cut in her apartment in nearby Fahrenbach Feb. 23, one day after the soldiers left their post without permission, another U. S. spokesman had said earlier.

The men were arrested in Fahrenbach Feb. 24. They will be tried by a U. S. military court. An unidentified third soldier had been held, but a spokesman said investigation established that he apparently was not involved.

The third man remained in custody on other charges, however, the spokesman said, including absence without leave.

22 Fishing Permits Sold Monday Morning

Fishing permits for Spring Fork Lake went on sale at the Sedalia Water Department this morning, but the expected rush of buyers turned out to be just a trickle.

At noon the total permits issued stood at 22.

Half-Day Break In Classes Caused By School Break-In

Pupils of Sunnyside School, north of Sedalia, had a half-day holiday Monday morning, due to a break-in at the school during the weekend.

Sheriff Emmett Fairfax said the break-in was reported early Monday morning. The thief or thieves broke out a window and defaced the side of a door. They took about $15 to $20 worth of food and the damage to the property was estimated at about $80.

Deputy Jack Coutts, who investigated, said the thief or thieves turned the furnace off, forcing officials to declare the holiday Monday morning, while the building was being heated up again.

Gas Tax Plan Sponsors Are Optimistic

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Gov. John M. Dalton and other sponsors of the gas tax sharing plan expressed increasing optimism today about its chances for passage in Tuesday's special election.

Back from a trip to Bolivar, where he helped inaugurate a new president of Southwest Baptist College Sunday, Dalton said he didn't get a single bad report from that southwestern Missouri area.

He forecast a total vote of over 600,000.

Meanwhile a spokesman for Missourians for Progress, the campaign organization, said last minute reports had made him more optimistic than before. He predicted the total vote might approach 700,000.

Austin Hill, deputy secretary of state, disagreed with the other vote estimates. He predicted the total might not exceed 450,000.

The weather forecast for Tuesday is continued cold but no more snow is in sight.

Meanwhile Fred L. Henley of Caruthersville, chairman of the Highway Commission, issued a personal appeal for every qualified voter to get to the polls. Missouri has an estimated 1,825,000 eligible voters.

If the gas tax plan is adopted, the present five-cent a gallon state tax will continue and one cent of the revenue will be divided between cities and counties. City gas taxes will be abolished.

If the plan is defeated, the state tax drops back to three cents and city taxes will continue.

In addition to the gas tax St. Louis will vote on school and municipal bond issues totaling more than $45 million.

The proposals failed to gain the required two-thirds majorities Jan. 23.

In St. Joseph, the people will be balloting for five candidates for mayor in the city's first non-partisan election under a new charter.

In Kansas City political and civic groups are split over two plans to set up a new councilmanic system. One would elect all 12 councilmen by districts. The other would name six by districts and six at large.

Special elections also are set in two state senatorial districts.

Publisher's Hearing Is Next Week

A showdown on the dispute between Stanton Hudson and the City of Sedalia over possession and rental of the Sedalia Times building failed to materialize as scheduled Monday and the case was continued to the week of March 12.

The actual date will be set later, on agreement between Hudson and Pettis County Prosecuting Attorney J. R. Fritz.

The hearing and possible showdown was scheduled for 10 a.m. today in Magistrate Court. Fritz and Hudson, who is acting as his own attorney in the civil matter filed last week, along with the City Attorney John C. McCloskey, Mayor Abe Silverman and other city officials and a number of interested would-be spectators were present at the County Courthouse to hear the announcement from Hudson that the case was continued.

The absence of a court reporter was given as the reason for the continuance. (Circuit Judge Frank Hayes with Jim Giokaris, court reporter, were in Boonville today.)

In the petition filed by McCloskey last week, the City is seeking to recover $125 in rent allegedly owed the City by Hudson, and possession of the Times building.

The city's petition alleges the building was acquired by the city on Dec. 29, 1961, and at this time Hudson was served notice to vacate not later than Feb. 1. At this time, the petition alleges Hudson was also advised rent on the building would be due Jan. 1, 1962.

The petition continues that on Jan. 24 Hudson was again advised the rent was due and that the building must be vacated. Hudson, however, failed to vacate and the city filed its legal action.

Witnesses for the city subpoenaed for appearance include: Mayor Abe Silverman, Chief of Police Ralph Hamlin, who served the eviction notice; City Clerk Ralph Dedrick, to whom Hudson's rent was to be paid; and Clinton Mueller, local real estate man.

The building in which the Times offices are located was acquired by the city for the construction of a municipal parking lot.

Don Smith Named

Don Smith, 1500 South Ohio, has been named temporarily as Sedalia's poundmaster. Smith worked for a while Saturday morning, cleaning up the pound and getting ready for a full day Monday.

Smith was named by Police Chief Ralph Hamlin, on authority from the Police Committee of the City Council, after a meeting Friday.

The poundmaster must be named by the Mayor. Mayor Abe Silverman said today that a permanent poundmaster, probably Smith, would probably be appointed at the council meeting tonight.

Bombs Set Off In Algiers

Explosions Rock City 90 Minutes Before Dawn Today

ALGIERS (AP)—A record-breaking wave of 135 plastic bomb explosions rocked Algiers for 90 minutes before dawn today in a new demonstration of strength by the European Secret Army Organization.

Twelve persons were injured, but no deaths were reported from the thundering blasts.

Police headquarters said 13 men were arrested either fleeing the scenes of the blasts or preparing to set off new charges. They formed three of what police estimated were a score of teams that carried out the attacks.

Most of the blasts were aimed against Moslem stories or parked automobiles belonging to Moslems. Police said no public buildings were damaged.

Thousands of Europeans in night clothes crowded to their windows and onto balconies, listening to the blasts and counting them. Cheers went up in the Bab-El-Oued section with every explosion.

"It was a real festival," one European woman said beaming.

European settlers close to the right-wing underground said the operation was part of a Secret Army plan to keep the Moslems in check.

The explosions ended at daybreak with the same suddenness they began in an expertly timed, massive show of strength by the European terrorists.

By noon life in Algiers appeared normal again except for tense troops patrolling the city.

Nutter Resigns To Return To Newspaper Work

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Charles Nutter, a member of the executive staff of the People-to-People organization, said today he had resigned to become a weekly newspaper publisher in the South.

Nutter worked in the newsroom of The Sedalia Capital in the 1920s.

Nutter, who came here last year from International House at New Orleans to help organize the national headquarters of People-to-People, said the present publisher of the weekly had asked him to withhold announcement of the location for the present.

"For a long time it has been my ambition to return to newspaper work with my son, who has been in the newspaper and television industry since 1955," Nutter said. "An opportunity has arisen which fits our requirements and I have decided to make this change."

Nutter formerly was on the staff of the Associated Press.

Khrushchev Orders New Farms Push

Warns Against Industry Neglect At Secret Meet

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev demanded today intensive development of the Soviet Union's agricultural system but warned against neglect of industry.

He spoke at a secret meeting of the Soviet Communist party's Central Committee, especially called to spur the country's state-managed farmers into higher production.

Details of his speech were not immediately released, but radio Moscow said in a brief summary that Khrushchev pointed out that discussing the question of agriculture "does not mean we are easing up on demands on the work of industry, although there are no little shortcomings in industry also."

The summary quoted Khrushchev as saying, however, that industry is developing successfully and its output has increased 33 per cent since the beginning of the seven-year plan in 1959.

The summary made no mention of the fact that agriculture has increased its production only about 5 per cent in the past three years.

"Agriculture touches on the interests of nearly every person. The level of development of agriculture determines to a certain extent the well being of the people," Khrushchev was quoted.

"Therefore, the further advance of agriculture and the increasing of the output of food products must be considered by us as a general party and general public matter."

The few details were released by the radio after Khrushchev had been speaking several hours. The broadcast said he was continuing his speech.

Arms Proposal Talks Accepted

WASHINGTON (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev has reluctantly accepted a U.S.-British proposal to open the 18-nation disarmament conference at Geneva next week with a foreign ministers meeting, officials reported today.

The Soviet government sent the United States a message, delivered to the State Department Sunday, advising that Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko will go to Geneva.

Authorities said the first quick study of the note indicated Gromyko will also be ready to attend a preliminary session with U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home, as the Western governments had proposed.

U.S. disarmament chief William Foster said in a television interview Sunday night that the United States now wants an even tighter inspection system than it would have been willing to accept last year prior to Soviet nuclear test series which began in September after months of secret preparations.

He said the West would not be prepared to take Khrushchev's word that the Soviets would not test again.

The new note from Moscow was expected to get personal attention

PARIS (AP)—The French government announced today it had decided not to send representatives to the disarmament conference starting in Geneva March 14.

from President Kennedy. He returned today from a weekend at Middleburg, Va.

Kennedy announced Friday night that the United States will resume nuclear weapons tests in the atmosphere in late April unless the Soviet Union signs an effective test ban treaty before that time.

The meeting of foreign ministers in advance of the general arms talks would deal primarily with the nuclear test ban problem. For the past three years negotiations on that particular issue were conducted by the three powers at Geneva until they broke down after the surprise Soviet test series.

Authorities said the note from Moscow put an end to the uncertainty which has troubled U.S. officials over the level at which the disarmament talks would start.

Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan said they would be prepared to go to a summit meeting at a later stage if progress in the talks warranted that, but they argued a top-level beginning of disarmament negotiations would do more harm than good by tending to freeze national positions on the whole range of disarmament issues.

Note In Bible Hints Cause Of Woman's Death

A letter found in a Bible belonging to Lillian Lorene Brown, who was found dead from a gunshot wound at the home of her father in Knob Noster Saturday night, indicates that the wound was self-inflicted, according to Johnson County Sheriff William Fortney.

The sheriff told The Democrat-Capital today that the woman's father told officers that the woman had said if anything ever happened, the father would find a letter in her Bible. Fortney said the letter, dated Jan. 24, has been found, and that it indicates the woman's death was at her own hands.

An inquest will be held at the Brauninger Funeral Home, Warrensburg, where the body was taken, at 7 p.m. Monday.

The fatal bullet came from a .22 rifle, the sheriff said. The bullet struck the woman in the right temple. The body was found by her father, Miller F. Canida, Knob Noster.

Open Session Slated For Powers' Story

Armed Services Senate Committee To Hear Details

WASHINGTON (AP)—U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers will tell his story in open session for the first time before the Senate Armed Services Committee Tuesday afternoon, Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., announced today.

Russell made the announcement after a secret briefing by Central Intelligence Director John A. McCone before two Senate subcommittees which monitor the super-secret agency.

The Georgia senator declined to give any personal evaluation of McCone's report, which was an account of the lengthy quizzing of Powers since his return to the United States.

Russell did say McCone would repeat the briefing before the full Senate Armed Services Committee Tuesday morning.

The two groups which heard today's report were subcommittees of the Armed Services and Appropriations committees.

The closed briefing this morning lasted an hour and a half.

Earlier it had been reported that a special board of inquiry found that Powers generally complied with orders on his ill-fated flight over Russia.

In the aftermath of extensive interrogation Powers is likely to be revealed as a man who met unexplained disaster and coped with it reasonably well. The 32-year-old pilot reportedly has not been able to shed much light on how his plane was forced down deep inside the U.S.S.R. May 1, 1960.

Primary Polls To Open Early Tuesday Morning

Sedalians go to the polls tomorrow to decide two important matters—who will be the party candidates for city offices in the general election April 3, and to help other Missourians decide on the state gasoline tax.

The candidates will be named, with the exception of a candidate for the office of City Collector, in a primary election, being held at the same time as the special election on the gasoline tax issue.

Voters in Sedalia may cast their ballots from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. in the designated polling places, as shown in the Sunday Democrat-Capital, and Pettis County voters outside of Sedalia may cast their ballots during the same hours, in county polling places shown in the same publication.

In Sedalia, the ballots in the special election and the primary election will be tabulated by separate sets of judges and clerks.

Write-ins in the primary will not be considered, according to an agreement between the Democrat and the Republican parties. In case of write-ins, the parties agreed, the write-in will be ignored and the ballot counted.

Dalton Reports Progress In Industrial Push

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—Back from a week in Washington, Gov. John M. Dalton reported progress today in the campaign to unite Missouri and its eight closest neighbors in a midwestern industrial development group.

"I think we did some good," he told newsmen. "We discovered some areas everyone is in agreement on."

For example, he said, federal officials told the midwesterners there would be a better chance for federal help in developing Ozark recreational areas if the three states of Arkansas, Oklahoma and Missouri joined forces.

Also represented at the meetings were the states of Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and Tennessee.

Some members of Missouri's congressional delegation were reported to have called on Lester E. Cox, chairman of the Commission of Commerce and Industrial Development, to apologize to Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo. Cox reportedly said Symington was dragging his feet in getting defense contracts for Missouri.

BPW Holds Anniversary Banquet Thursday Night

Mrs. Lorene Clingsmith, president of the Missouri Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, was the speaker at the 39th Anniversary Banquet of the Sedalia Business and Professional Women's Club Thursday night at the Smith-Cotton Cafeteria.

Taking for her subject, "My Treasure Chest," Mrs. Clingsmith said that we are always in search of treasures, but usually we overlook treasures that are close at hand.

"My dream came true," she said, "I found that treasure chest, and it has three dimensions—height, width and breadth."

The first dimension is height, she said, and membership in the BPWC, she felt, had increased her status giving her many precious friends. It would be well for each to ask themselves "What is my status?" she continued, because it is a challenge.

She stressed that the federation owes much to those who pioneered it, and questioned the ability, in comparison, of the women today. "Are we willing to do our part to see that America is a Democracy?" she wanted to know, and pointed out that the women of today must be ready to meet the challenge of tomorrow in a changing world. She urged that the women look themselves over and see how they measure up and if they aren't what they would like to be to work toward that goal.

The second dimension is depth. No community is perfect, she said, no matter how much you like it, and so the clubs should spearhead improvement in their community. There is tremendous work as citizens to do to bring about a better community.

Third is breadth, and in this was the national government and the entire world. Women, she said, should work to bring better conditions in the world for what comes to us as seed will go to others as blossoms and from blossoms to fruit. We should strive to attain our own personal desires and then spread our faith to others.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Mildred Bowman, membership chairman. Mrs. Bowman had made clever decorations in keeping with the theme, which were little paper treasure chests filled with candy as favors and programs with a door that opened to reveal the BPWC emblem. On the tables, too, were golden keys, symbols of the Federation's song, "The Golden Key" to unlock both the door and the chest. Carrying out the gold were arrangements of daffodils by Mrs. Cledith Pfeiffer.

The BPWC Glee Club, under the direction of Mrs. A. R. Beach, sang three very beautiful selections, with Mrs. Beach at the piano.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Jessie Goist, president, with invocation by the chaplain, Mrs. Virginia Gilpin. The singing of the national anthem was led by Mrs. Opal Hugelman, accompanied by Miss Doris Stott. Miss Stott, also, played organ music during the dinner meeting.

The emblem presentation was by Miss Freda Mueller, who explained the meaning of the emblem.

Others at the speaker's table were: Miss Erma Hodges, Grovers Mills, district director of District 4; Miss Lenore Dykes, Princeton, editor of the Missouri Business Woman; Miss Willa Jane Smith, state recording secretary; and Mrs. Jeanette Calvird, Clinton, state career advancement chairman; Miss Hazel Palmer, a past national president, Mrs. Marjorie Garanson, state national security chairman and Miss Georgia Giokaris, vice-president of the Sedalia Club, all of Sedalia.

Out of town guests included: Mrs. Ruby Anderson, president, Mrs. Melva Christ, Mrs. Viola Gibson, Mrs. Gertrude McKenzie and Mrs. Dorothy Barron, all from the Grovers Mills Club; Miss Hazel Hale, president, Miss Albert Meyer and Ruth Langley, all from the Jefferson City Club and Gertrude Keller, first vice-president, from the Clinton Club. Part of Training

American GI's Get Sample Of Commie Mistreatments

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — American soldiers in Korea are regularly subjected to simulated Communist-type torture and brutality—hung by their wrists, rolled in mud, trapped inside boxes, and set upon by dogs.

A rasping voice booms at them from a loudspeaker: "You are prisoners of a peaceful nation which will bring the imperialistic aggressors to their knees. Cooperate, and you will learn the truth about peace-loving people!"

But the prison camp scene is not real. It's a part of a training program on escape and evasion conducted by the U.S. 7th

Infantry Division's 2nd Battle Group.

The armed forces newspaper Pacific Stars and Stripes recently explained that "perhaps the most important part is the vivid enactment of enemy actions towards captured soldiers."

Describing the training, the paper said one recent test assumed that aggressor forces had overrun friendly positions at night, and that the order was to break up into small groups and escape to friendly territory across five miles of rugged Korean terrain.

Those captured were interned in a prison camp where they were made to learn the importance of the code of conduct governing the behavior of American prisoners of war.

"After capture, the prisoners were taken to the compound by armored personnel carriers," the story said. "Inside, they were stripped of their weapons and boots and underwent an hour of brainwashing and threats.

"Cooperate," the camp commandant shouted over a microphone. "You have been duped by your imperialistic leaders of Wall Street. You are cold and hungry while your people back home are getting fat off your misery."

Lucky prisoners managed to escape their captors and dash for their own lines, but others were humiliated and tortured when they refused to give information beyond their name, rank, serial number and date of birth.

"Take the prisoner out and loosen his tongue," the voice behind the bright light would say. "When he wants to talk, bring him back to me."

The service newspaper reports that aggressor guards, acting out Communist techniques, push some prisoners into a sweat box—a wall locker suspended over a hot fire. A variation is to keep the prisoner in the locker while guards pound on the outside with clubs.

Another subtle technique used in the training program is to tempt the shivering prisoners with blankets during their interrogation. They are told that if they answer questions, they will receive a blanket and be permitted to go to bed. However, if they fail for the bait they must sign a receipt before getting a blanket. The receipt turns out to be a confession of waging germ warfare.

Switching strategy, occasionally a prisoner is given a blanket without signing for it. But he is forced to walk through the camp in full sight of his fellow prisoners with the blanket on his arm. The idea is to breed distrust and suspicion among the prisoners.

Other Communist techniques duplicated at the camp: uncooperative prisoners are strung up by their hands to a pole; a dog, under control of an expert handler, is permitted to rip their clothing; artificial snakes are draped around their necks as they crawl between lines of guards, each asking for units and intelligence; they are brought before mock firing squads.

BARGAIN DAY FOR MISSOURI

The proposition Missourians are to vote upon March 6 in a special election is misunderstood by some people.

What we shall vote upon is an amendment providing for present state gasoline revenues to be shared with cities and counties to help local street and road problems—which are certainly in need of help throughout Missouri.

The March 6 ballot is NOT one to increase the gas tax. If Amendment No. 1 is ratified by the voters, the state gasoline tax will remain exactly where it is today and city gasoline taxes will be abolished.

So—who gets hurt? Nobody!

Who gets helped? Missourians who travel by motorcar in every class of traffic—on city streets, on rural roads and on state highways! Take a look at our streets and see if you don't agree they could well use the money!

Not only this, but the present gasoline tax is enough to provide also for an expanded and improved program of construction and maintenance by the State Highway Department.

In cities and towns having a local gasoline tax on top of the state tax, adoption of Amendment No. 1 actually will bring a tax reduction by ending the city tax. It will make the tax uniform, everywhere in the state, and yet continue to give all towns and cities at least as much money for their streets as they had in 1960.

Truthfully, March 6 is bargain day for Missourians! We are offered more, better and safer state highways; improved county roads and an answer to city street problems, all in one economy package.

Let's buy it and give the green light to progress in Missouri!

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: Does a husband have the right to ask his wife, when they are both sitting in the living room watching TV, "Please get me a glass of water?"

This question may seem like a trifle, but honestly, it has happened so many times that one of these days I'm going to get that lazy lout a glass of water and pour it on his head. Last Saturday night we were watching an exciting western. In the most crucial part he started to say, "Gee, I'm thirsty." I cut right in with, "So am I. How about getting me a glass of water?" If looks could kill I'd have died on the spot.

He didn't move a muscle and neither did I. Two hours later he said "God made woman to be the helpmate of man. Thanks for nothing."

Now I'm confused. Please tell me if I have been wrong. Or is it him?—NO GUNGA DIN

Dear No Gunga: Small children have pillow fights. You two grown-up babies are still having water fights.

Invest in a good thermos bottle. Fill it with ice water after dinner and place it on the TV with two glasses. This simple act will insure domestic tranquility and prevent foreign entanglements.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a career gal, 27. I have a better than average figure, dress well and am considered attractive. I'm reasonably content except for one thing. My nose is too large for my face. I've always felt that if I had a nice nose I would be beautiful instead of just attractive.

Since I was 15 I've wanted to have my nose re-done by a plastic surgeon. Several of my girl friends did and it improved their looks considerably. My mother was in favor of the operation but my father was violently opposed to it. Whenever the girls with the done-over noses came to our home he privately referred to them as the "Pekingese set."

Last Spring Dad died. The fellow I'm dating thinks I should have the nose operation. I'm ach-

Revelers Ready For Big Blast At Mardi Gras

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—Mardi Gras revelers rested up today in preparation for the final big blast of the carnival season Tuesday.

Only one parade, the traditional night march of the Krewe of Proteus, was scheduled after a week-end of festivities that saw three parades Saturday and five Sunday.

Eight parades will march through New Orleans on Mardi Gras (Shrove Tuesday), as the festive pre-Lenten season reaches its climax.

Bobby to Clear Texas Remarks With Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tongue in cheek, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy says he has been ordered by President Kennedy to clear future remarks on Texas with Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, a Texan.

On his recent world tour the attorney general remarked in Indonesia that he didn't think the Mexican War of 1846-8 was justifiable. Texans raised the specter of the Alamo and vigorously disagreed.

In a television interview Sunday night the attorney general reported that his brother, the President, "said that he wasn't going to muzzle me but from now on all my speeches on Texas should be cleared with the vice president."

Burglar Has Change Of Heart In Shop

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A burglar broke into a pizza shop Sunday and took $15.20 from a cigarette vending machine—then apparently changed his mind.

Owner Harry Edelson found the money in a paper bag in front of the machine, along with a note that read, "I changed my mind. You need it more than I do. (Signed) A Guilty Conscience."

Olmstead Parent Succumbs To Heart Attack On Sunday

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP)—J. Blaine Olmstead, father of a U.S. Air Force flier imprisoned by the Russians, is dead of a heart attack at 65.

Olmstead's son, Capt. Freeman B. Olmstead, was aboard an RB47 reconnaissance plane shot down by the Soviets over the Barents Sea in July, 1960. He and another crew member, Capt. John R. McKone, were held by the Soviets until January 1961.

The elder Olmstead died in a hospital Sunday. Besides Capt. Olmstead, now stationed in California, he is survived by his wife and two other sons.

Anniversary Number 20 For Seabees

GREAT LAKES, Ill. (AP)—The Seabees, those muscular men who can wield either a sword or a plowshare, observed their 20th anniversary today.

The U.S. Navy construction battalions were established in 1942 to build and repair overseas bases—and, if necessary, to defend their handiwork against the enemy.

They have worked in war and peace from the tropics to the polar regions. They are still at it as a permanent part of the nation's naval arm.

They are building missile tracking stations in the Pacific, bases in the antarctic and housing units in places as far apart as Greenland and Guam.

Since this is the official birthday of the Seabees, the drum beaters at this naval station beat the drums for them.

Perhaps the classic World War II story involved a group of U.S. Marines who stormed ashore at New Georgia Island in the Pacific expecting stiff Japanese resistance. Instead, a Seabee officer walked out of the jungle and greeted their surprised command officer.

"Colonel," he said, "the Navy Seabees are always happy to welcome Marines to enemy-held territory."

On another Pacific island, the Seabees built a 3,500 foot airstrip in a dense jungle in less than 13 days. They apologized for not finishing the job sooner. They were slowed down by 16 inches of rain.

Another Seabee outfit built a camp for 6,000 men, complete with housing units, mess hall, utilities and roads, in 17 days.

On Tinian, an island in the Marianas, the Seabees laid six million square yards of asphalt, enough to pave a road from Chicago to Milwaukee and back again, in 9 months.

The Seabees have been decorated with hundreds of laurels. But probably the highest praise came from a captured Japanese major who had been hiding in a cave on Iwo Jima for several weeks.

Campaign For Desegregation

Led from his hiding place, the major looked in awe at how the Seabees had rebuilt the demolished island and said: "Impossible."

"I want to say thank you for the work you have done," the Negro actor said Sunday. "And to ask that you give me some encouragement to take to my Northern friends who sometimes are too complacent."

He said Northerners "overlook the insidious segregation of the North because the spotlight is on the South."

THE NEXT 4 YEARS... will be decisive ones for our city!

TOMORROW when you go to the polls, vote for J. H. Bagby, Democrat for Mayor. Sedalia needs his proven leadership, experience, ability, dedication and vision to direct our city to a brighter future.

An open letter to all citizens from J. H. Bagby:

JULIAN H. BAGBY
1413 W. Broadway
Sedalia, Mo.

To all the citizens of Sedalia:

Tomorrow we will choose by the most democratic method possible the candidates to represent the parties in the coming general election.

During the next four year our community will undergo abrupt changes in population and in the tempo of its economy. Unless the candidates you select tomorrow can provide the necessary leadership and vision, the City may suffer reverses which will affect our lives for many years to come.

For twenty-five years I have studied municipal government and have served as your Mayor for a part of that time. My sole motive in seeking the office again is my belief that the knowledge and experience I gained during those years can be of real service to the City in the years just ahead. I believe, too, that Sedalia needs a program which will look beyond the next four years.

In the past few weeks, I have done my best to present my program clearly. In all of my statements the facts presented have been proved, and are supported, by public records. I have meant every word that I have said about my program. I have conducted my campaign on a high level. When I am unable to ask for public office on my own record and on my own program, I will not resort to insulting you good and honest people by the use of mis-statements or by campaigning on the shortcomings of others.

Tomorrow is upon us. Tomorrow is the day of decision. I urge each of you to cast your ballot for those candidates you believe can best serve you in the years ahead.

Sincerely,

Julian H. Bagby

J. H. Bagby Will Represent All of The People

As Mr. Bagby has publicly stated, he will work with all citizens of Sedalia, with members of the official boards and committees, and with members of the city council in the accomplishment of these goals:

1. Better City Management.

3. Better Communication To Keep Citizens Informed.
4. City Charter Study Commission.
5. A Sound Street Program.

"Slim" Steele and Jack Vaughan registered a 1333 for the winning Doubles score. Fran Tray rode a brilliant 276 to a record smashing 700 series and the winning all-events score of 1859.

Kell, enjoying his finest tournament, had contributed a 565 in leading Andy's Barber Shop to a second place finish in the team tournament. Victor Scott recorded games of 180, 224, 254—658, plus 51 pins handicap, for 709 on his way to second place in the singles. Cloyce Wilson, a 144 average bowler, put together games of 188, 227, 148—563, plus 111 handicap, which was good for third place with 674.

Paced by a towering series of 677 by Jack Vaughan the team of C. O. "Slim" Steele and Vaughan rolled to the Doubles title with a smashing 1333 total. Steele had consistent games of 183, 184, 193—560 while Vaughan rolled a rousing 204, 239, 234—677. Their handicap total of 96 pins to their 1237 scratch total gave them their victory.

LeRoy Johnson and Tom Robb finished in second position with 1316. Johnson turned on the steam in the first game with a fine 268 game and then added 176, 155 for a 599 total. Robb started with a 166, added games of 243 and 143 for a 552 total. Their scratch total of 1151 plus handicap gave them their 1316.

Bud Buford and Les Alderman chipped a 1202 scratch series plus 105 handicap for 1307 good for third place. Buford unloaded games of 215, 197, 206 for 618 while Alderman contributed 197, 182, 205—584.

College Basketball Heads For Last Week of Season

By JIM HACKLEMAN

Associated Press Sports Writer

College basketball is heading into the last week of its regular season but in the jargon of Madison Avenue, there is considerable firming up and finalizing to do, tournament-wise.

Of the two major postseason classics, the NCAA has four entries to go in its 25-member field and the National Invitation Tournament needs two more clubs to complete its 12-team competition.

At the earliest the two tournaments will have their slates filled a week from tonight, when Cincinnati and Bradley tangle on a neutral court at Evansville, Ind., to settle their Missouri Valley Conference hassle. The winner will go to the NCAA, the loser to the NIT.

The other question marks are in the Big Eight, Middle Atlantic and Southwest conferences. Each of these races could result in a playoff.

In the Big Eight, Kansas State tied Colorado for first place Saturday night with a 60-48 victory over the Buffaloes. Each has two games left, K-State at Oklahoma State tonight and at Nebraska Wednesday, Colorado at Missouri tonight and with Kansas Saturday. If they still are tied at the windup, the situation will be resolved by either a playoff or a toss of a coin.

In the Middle Atlantic, Temple is 8-1 after beating Gettysburg 49-44 Saturday while Lafayette (9-2) was losing to Delaware 57-56. St. Joseph's (Pa.) is between at 7-1 and plays at Lafayette Tuesday night. This is another prime prospect for playoff, with the consolation prize for the loser a spot in the NIT.

The Southwest clubs were idle over the weekend but close out their season Tuesday night, when Texas Tech is at Rice and Southern Methodist entertains Arkansas in the key games. Tech and SMU are co-leaders at 10-3 and should they finish even, they'll play off at Fort Worth Friday night.

With the pressure on, Bradley tied Cincinnati for the Missouri Valley title with a 58-47 victory at St. Louis Saturday night. A 14-point spurt in the second half paced by All-America Chet Walker nailed it down for the Braves. Cincinnati has won four straight conference crowns and captured the national championship last year with its memorable triumph over Ohio State. Bradley has been runner-up in the Missouri Valley five seasons in a row.

Although a flock of titles and tournament spots were decided over the weekend and several more races were scrambled to the premier development was Wisconsin's celebrated upset over Ohio State.

The Badgers, swift, confident and determined, ran off from the Buckeyes 86-67 in posting the biggest surprise of the year. Ohio State, unchallenged as the country's No. 1 team with a spotless 22-0 record and already winner of its third successive Big Ten title, played even at Wisconsin until the buzzing Badgers started pulling away late in the first half. Afterward, it was a futile game of trying to catch up for the Bucks.

Elsewhere Saturday—All America Len Chappell's 31 points led Wake Forest to a 77-66 victory over Clemson in the Atlantic Coast tourney title game. West Virginia smothered nervous Virginia Tech 88-72 and took its seventh Southern Conference title in eight years.

Massachusetts won its first Yankee crown, beating New Hampshire 109-62. Pepperdine swept to the West Coast A.C. championship by stopping St. Mary's 81-76. Utah State earned the Skyline Conference's NCAA berth with its 88-77 decision over New Mexico, paced by Cornell Green's 46 points. And Kentucky was named the Southeastern Conference representative to the NCAA.

Actually, Utah is Skyline champion and Mississippi State the leader in the Southeastern, but the Utes are on NCAA probation and ineligible for the tourney and the Bulldogs were declared out because of Mississippi's stand against interracial athletics.

Providence clouted Holy Cross Saturday night as Jim Hadnot pumped in 42 points. Loyola got by John Carroll 67-66 with a tip-in by Jerry Harkness 35 seconds before the final buzzer. Kevin Loughery's 20-foot shot in the very last second gave St. John's a 71-69 victory over Marquette. Dayton swamped Kent State 94-65. Tulsa upended Wichita for the second time this season, 63-60.

University High Of St. Louis Wins Rifle Match

BOONVILLE, Mo. (AP)—St. Louis University High won the team championship at the 27th annual indoor Camp Perry small-bore rifle matches during the weekend with a score of 753 out of a possible 800 points.

Chuck Moorehead, 18, of Leavenworth, Kan., a freshman at Pittsburg State College, took top individual honors with 194 x 200. The largest field in the meet's history included more than 400 shooters and coaches from 11 states.

Division leaders included: Advanced ROTC—Team, Iowa State University; individual, C. Colwell, Iowa State. Basic ROTC—Team, Oklahoma Military Academy; individual, Moorehead.

High School—Team, Leavenworth; individual, James Bolden, Kansas City. Standing position—A. Nixon, Kansas City. Kneeling position—J. C. Clemens, Southern Illinois. Prone position—K. Hartfelder, Leavenworth.

Head List of 18

Jay, Cepeda Are the Last Big Name League Holdouts

By JACK CLARY

Associated Press Sports Writer

Joey Jay and Orlando Cepeda are the last of the big name major league holdouts today, heading a list of 18 unsigned players who will find major league general managers giving more time to the playing field and less to the paying field this week.

Rocky Colavito of Detroit was the latest of the super-stars to sign a 1962 contract when he agreed to terms Sunday after a four-day holdout. His salary will be reported $48,500.

Colavito, who took part in a Tigers' drill at Lakeland, Fla., soon after agreeing with General Manager Rick Ferrell's offer, got $35,000 last year for hitting 45 home runs, batting in 140 and ringing up a .290 average. He had sought more than $50,000 this year.

Jay, who won 21 games for Cincinnati's National League champions a year ago, has offered to buy his contract for $200,000 from the Reds so he could make a deal for himself. Reds' General Manager Bill DeWitt has refused. He indicated Sunday that the 26-year old right-hander can sit out the season if he doesn't sign.

Cepeda, the San Francisco Giants slugging first baseman, has continually balked at terms but the Giants aren't concerned about his playing condition after a season of winter baseball.

Eight of the holdouts are pitchers, with the Giants' Jack Sanford, Pete Ramos and Camilo Pascual of Minnesota and reliever Don McMahon of Milwaukee heading the list. Others are Bob Miller of Cincinnati, Jim Owens of Philadelphia and Ray Moore of the Twins.

Fishing Rights Squabble Between Indians, Whites

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — If it were happening in the 1800s, people would be talking about an Indian war.

The issue is fish and fishing rights, and the battlelines have been drawn—whites against Indians and sometimes Indians against other Indians.

Along the Puyallup River in the industrial city of Tacoma, the Skagit River near the small north-west Washington community of Mt. Vernon and the Hoko River on the beautiful Olympic Peninsula, Indians are placing nets, trapping salmon and the overgrown, sea-going rainbow trout known as steelhead.

Both Indians and whites admit the fishery resources of Washington State are invaluable. The white man has enacted laws designed to protect it.

The problem is the laws passed by the white men in most respects apply only to themselves.

Washington State has 23 Indian reservations and 35 Indian tribes. Each reservation and each tribe has a treaty with the U.S. government—agreements reached a century or more ago.

Under the treaties, the U.S. government granted the tribes "the exclusive right of taking fish in all the streams running through or bordering a reservation" and fishing rights "in all usual and accustomed places" that were fished by their ancestors.

To the dismay of conservation-minded white men, the Indians have been exercising those rights heavily in commercial fishing ventures worth thousands of dollars. The white man claims they let conservation go by the boards. In some instances white sports fishermen have lost their tempers, gone in force to the rivers and torn out the nets.

A white man from Sekiu has been charged with second-degree assault by two Makah Indians who claim he threatened them with a rifle as they guarded nets set in the Sekiu River.

Recently a mutilated net ripped from the Skagit River was tacked to the front of a town hall in the community of Concrete. It carried a sign: "How we fix them."

Along the Puyallup fistfights have erupted between groups of Indians over choice netting locations. Some Indians, armed with rifles and shotguns, guard their nets day and night.

Off-reservation fishing by Indians has been on the increase, and the state has moved to stop it from spreading.

On Jan. 6 State Game Department enforcement officers, aided by radio communications and a reconnaissance aircraft, swooped down on the Nisqually River south of Tacoma, arrested five Indian fishermen and confiscated their nets, along with about 800 pounds of fish.

The state said the five were "nontreaty" Indians taking game fish illegally off a reservation.

Head game warden Walter Neubrecht says one of the central problems for enforcement officers is determining (1) who is an Indian, and (2) who is a "treaty" Indian.

Many Indians have intermarried with other groups of Indians or other races until the degree of Indian ancestry is diluted beyond recognition, says Neubrecht.

Neubrecht said some persons with 1-16th or even 1-32nd Indian ancestry are claiming rights contained in the century-old treaties.

Treaty problems and difficulties in telling who is an Indian have created a vacuum in law enforcement, says Neubrecht, who has urged the federal government to fill the vacuum by appropriate legislation.

"Serious trouble may be ahead unless the problem is settled quickly," he said.

Legislator Finds College Students Political Cynics

CHICAGO (AP) — College students are far more interested in political issues today than they were 10 years ago, but they have grown cynical about political parties, Rep. John Brademas, D-Ind., said today.

"The peace marchers in Washington and the Freedom Riders in the South symbolize the genuine concern many American college students feel about the pressing issues of nuclear disarmament and civil rights," Brademas said.

"Yet, the sincere concern has not led to widespread commitment by these students to our two major political parties."

Brademas, in a talk prepared for delivery to the 17th National Conference on Higher Education, said there are two reasons why the students are cool toward party organizations.

"In the first place, many students do not understand the crucial function of political parties in a democracy. They believe that any kind of adjustment of conflicting views on highly controversial issues is only cynical."

"Second, many of the students who feel most deeply about political and social issues reject any solution but their own. They seek very simple answers to very complex questions."

Brademas said the universities "must do a far better job than they have done in teaching young people the nature of the political process in the United States."

"The fact that young Americans regard politics with such cynicism is in part due to the failure of the universities to make clear that, with all its shortcomings, the two-party system has been an extraordinarily effective instrument for political change in our country."

Another speaker, Prof. Abraham Holtzman of North Carolina State College, agreed with Brademas and said that the nation's universities have an obligation to educate their students so that they can fill their roles as responsible citizens and leaders.

Holtzman said it is doubtful that students can be taught interest or involvement in politics. But, he added, "students can be caught up in the heady excitement of intellectual ferment, the challenge of ideas, and the fascination of problem solving."

Favored For A Derby Win

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sir Gaylord's position as the favorite for the May 5 running of the Kentucky Derby was stronger than ever today following the unexpected victory of Prego in the $136,200 Flamingo at Hialeah Park and the more or less expected triumph of Royal Attack in the $152,100 Santa Anita Derby.

The star of C. T. Chenery's Meadow Stable missed the Flamingo because of a minor ankle injury. But there was nothing in Prego's victory, achieved after Sunrise County finished first and then was disqualified, that should cause Sir Gaylord's followers to lose any sleep. There were no shutouts of "another Swaps or Determine" after Royal Attack carried Neil McCarthy's colors to a three-quarter length triumph over Fred W. Hooper's Admiral's Voyage.

Backers of Mrs. Moody Jolley's Ridan, all-victorious last year but unable to win a major stakes as a 3-year-old, did see a ray of hope in the colt's Flamingo performance. Ridan staged a great stretch drive to finish third, a neck back of Prego.

Ridan, however, was moved up to second after Sunrise County, who finished first by 1½ lengths, was disqualified for bearing out in the stretch. Sunrise County was placed third.

Sir Gaylord has beaten all of the Flamingo field at one time or the other, except Dead Ahead, and probably will get another chance to show his superiority in the $300,000-added Florida Derby Gulfstream Park March 31.

Time for the 1¼ miles of the Flamingo, with all horses carrying 122 pounds, was 1:49, two seconds off Bold Ruler's track and stake record.

4-H Has Good Foundation

When President Lincoln signed into law a bill that eventually led to the establishment of 68 land-grant colleges and universities he hoped "to promote the liberal and practical education of the industrial classes in the several pursuits and professions in life."

Even though Lincoln was saddened by civil strife which was tearing the nation apart, he did envision a United States where higher education would be available to all.

Would he be comforted to know that 100 years later well over half a million students are enrolled in land-grant institutions? Or that these educational establishments also are the fountainhead of agricultural, technological and scientific knowledge for the very young?

For more than a half century, our land-grant universities and colleges have been "extending" such information to 4-H Club members. Today more than 93,000 clubs, from Maine to California, are well into the 1962 program.

The agency that directs 4-H work is the Cooperative Extension Service, an educational arm of the land-grant system and the USDA. One of its functions is to supervise extension personnel and 4-H activities in some 3,000 counties involving 400,000 volunteer adult leaders, and 2.3 million

4-H'ers between the ages of 10 and 21 years.

As times have changed and population shifted, so has the Extension Service and its 4-H program devoted to the fourfold development of boys and girls: Head, Heart, Hands and Health pledged to clear thinking, greater loyalty, larger service and better living.

This week the entire nation joins in the celebration of National 4-H Club Week. President Kennedy has taken time to convey a special message to the 4-H'ers and plans to see a delegation in his White House office. Statesmen, business and civic leaders, and parents will participate in local, state and national events to mark the week.

And we have good reason to rejoice over our 4-H Clubs for they now have counterparts in at least 70 foreign countries.

Mr. Lincoln would take great comfort in that fact alone, we think. His sombre countenance might even light up with one of his rare smiles if he could see the widespread results of the stroke of his quill when he signed the land-grant bill a hundred years ago.

Let us hope and pray that the land-grant system will continue to flourish unhampered, and the 4-H with it, for the next 100 years.

Ask For Sealing Nixon Testimony

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — A Superior Court Judge in Los Angeles will hand down a decision today (March 5) which might decide whether ex-Vice President Nixon will become the next governor of California. The judge is Philbrick McCoy and he has been asked to keep secret the Nixon testimony to be taken March 9 in the suit between Frank J. Waters and the Howard Hughes tool company.

In the background, of course, is the dynamite-laden issue of the $205,000 loan by Hughes to Don Nixon, brother of the vice president, on rather dubious collateral. The loan is now in default.

This writer, in October 1960, quoted various letters showing that Nixon must have known about the loan and been a factor in its negotiation. This was denied. One of the denials issued by Nixon's office at the time stated that the loan had been arranged by Frank Waters, attorney for Hughes, because Mrs. Waters had been a school-friend of Mrs. Don Nixon's.

Mrs. Waters at the time threw cold water on this. And the Waters suit for $1,094,000 against Hughes for back legal fees would also indicate that money is a lot thicker than Nixon-Waters friendship; for the suit already has become quite embarrassing to Nixon.

Nixon's deposition is to be taken March 9 in the office of Arthur J. Crowley, attorney for Waters, and the attorneys for Hughes have moved that the testimony will be of "a political nature and should not be made public." They have requested a court order that only the principals and their attorneys be present and the deposition sealed by the court thereafter.

Medical Lobby

A willful coalition of 10 Republicans and a handful of Democratic congressmen is holding up passage of the Medical Aid to the Aged Bill which various polls show is one of Kennedy's most popular proposals. In other words, approximately 15 congressmen are blocking medical care for approximately 15,000,000 elderly Americans unable to pay for the high cost of private health insurance.

There is no question that the elder-care bill would pass Congress if permitted to go to the House floor for a vote. Enactment by the Senate, where there are freer Democratic processes, would follow quickly.

But the willful coalition inside the House Ways and Means Committee says no.

There are two tough factors influencing the coalition. One is Democratic Wilbur Mills of Arkansas, the committee chairman, once elected as a progressive young congressman but who has grown old and conservative in harness.

The other is the American Medical Association lobby, which is trying to convince the nation that Kennedy's brand of medical care for the aged is "socialized medicine." Significantly, the AMA's brain washing is centered chiefly in the congressional districts of House Ways and Means Committee members.

Thirteen votes are needed to get the Kennedy Bill out of the 23-member committee. Here is how the members are now divided: OPPOSED are Democrat Mills and 10 Republicans — Noah Mason (Ill.), John Byrnes (Wis.), Howard Baker (Tenn.), Thomas Curtis (Mo.), Victor Knox (Mich.), James Utt (Calif.), Jackson Betts (Ohio), Bruce Alger (Tex.), Steven Derouin (N. Y.) and Herman Schneebeli (Pa.).

FOR the bill are Democrats Cecil King (Calif.), Thomas O'Brien (Ill.), Hale Boggs (La.), Eugene Keogh (N. Y.), Frank Karsten (Mo.), William Green (Pa.), Al Ullman (Ore.), James Burke (Mass.) and Martha Griffiths (Mich.).

Uncommitted but leaning toward the Kennedy Bill, or else a compromise version, are Democrats A. S. Herlong (Pa.), John C. Watts (Ky.) and Clark Thompson (Tex.).

Uncommitted but leaning against Kennedy are Democrats Burr Harrison (Va.) and James B. Frazier (Tenn.).

In other words, 11 Ways and Means members are against the Aged Care Bill, nine are for it, and five are doubtful. Those five doubtfuls will really decide whether 15,000,000 elderly citizens get medical care. This is how democracy works in the House of Representatives.

New American Casualty List

A new American casualty list has been started at the Pentagon. Although it now has only 15 names, the military chiefs gloomily expect it to grow longer. For the 15 men were killed or are missing in South Vietnam where the United States is stepping up military operations to prevent a communist takeover.

Here are the names already listed on this unhappy honor roll:

THE TULSA TRIBUNE: Prison, for This?—An Oklahoma City housewife, mother of two, has been sentenced to thirty days in jail and fined $1,000 for demonstrating it is possible for a person to vote four times in a school board election there.

There is no question, apparently, of the woman's public-spirited intent. The television cameras followed her on her vote binge. All she wanted to do, she said, was to call public attention to a bad situation.

If that's true, the sentence sounds unnecessarily severe. Elections have been won and lost because of laxity in supervision, although this was not the contention in this particular election. It is good to have someone point up the dangers.

Sure, the court has to be stern. The court has an obligation to warn others that the law is not to be trifled with. But the sentence could have been suspended on condition that, having made her point, the woman would not try the same trick twice.

With all the political crookedness that has existed in Oklahoma elections we're in poor position to throw would-be reformers, however clumsy, in the clink.

The Criminal Court of Appeals should suspend this sentence pronto.

US, Russia Caught In Gruesome Trap

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — In their race not to be second, the United States and Russia are caught in their own gigantic and gruesome trap.

They're too stuck with fear of each other not to test their terrible weapons to make them even more terrible.

What they say to each other about it, and about each other, is taking a monotonous repetition. They even use the same word, "blackmail," against each other.

They're beginning to look incapable of getting unstuck. The result is no end of testing is in sight.

Last August, when the Soviets said they would end a three-year voluntary ban on testing, the White House issued a statement that said the Russian announcement was primarily a form of "atomic blackmail, designed to substitute terror for reason."

Now, six months later, President Kennedy says the United States will resume testing to keep the Russians from getting ahead unless they agree to a test ban with an inspection system to prevent cheating.

To this over the weekend the Russian news agency Tass responded: This "strongly resembles blackmail."

Last Sept. 9, eight days after the Soviets had resumed testing, this country and Britain appealed to Premier Khrushchev for an immediate test ban, untested until a treaty could be agreed on. Khrushchev rejected this, saying Russia "will not agree to such a deal; it is possible to end nuclear tests only on the basis of general and complete disarmament."

General disarmament discussion is scheduled to begin March 14 in Geneva and Russia has suggested letting a nuclear test ban be made part of the talks, but the Kremlin has already said it will not buy a policed inspection system.

Without an inspection system, no agreement seems possible, because ever since World War II this country has refused any disarmament without inspection.

This is the biggest sticking point between East and West.

Yet, although Khrushchev last September turned down a temporary untested test ban, now

Harder Now For Golfers To Keep Eye on the Ball

By RUTH MILLETT

A new country club in Miami is introducing women caddies for the first time in the United States.

It's easy to make a few predictions about how that will work out.

Men players will have a new subject to talk about at the nineteenth hole — their caddies.

Tips will be larger — and the caddy the bigger tip.

Men will try harder than ever to win their matches — in order to impress their caddies.

The biggest trouble the club will have in finding girls suitable for the job of caddy is finding girls who can keep quiet when they should, who won't shatter a man's nerves by making sprightly

Kennedy says the United States will resume testing unless Russia agrees to an inspected ban.

So, Khrushchev, who turned down an untested ban, seems certain to turn down the opposite kind, which is the kind he wants least. Tass has already indicated he will do just that.

It said Kennedy's proposal is "completely unacceptable," claiming the inspection system would leave Russia wide open to spying.

The Mature Parent

'Perfection' Is Impossible As a Goal for Parent

By Mrs. Muriel Lawrence
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

In a scuffle with his little brother, the ladder belonging to Roger's fire-fighting truck got broken. So upset was he that his mother promised to get him a new ladder.

Last Saturday as she backed the car out of the garage, Roger ran out to remind her of the promise. She said, "Get away from the car. I've got a lot of things to do downtown this morning. I'll remember."

And she DID remember her promise. The memory of it stayed with her during her errands at the cleaner's, the bakery and the supermarket. But when she had completed them, a strange thing happened. Instead of turning the car up the side street that led to the toy store, she drove straight on past it.

Aware of the disappointment that she was going to inflict on Roger, she thought with sudden irritation, "I can't help it. I don't have time. I'll get his ladder next week."

But pressure by time had nothing to do with her real reason for disregarding her promise to Roger.

She broke it because he had reminded her of it.

Like others among us who are proud of our perfect devotion to children, Roger's mother fiercely resented his reminder of her promise. In it she read the ungrateful suggestion that she could fail in devotion to him. It hinted at atmospheric testing last September, and the world shuddered at the thought of radioactive fallout. Washington took quick propaganda advantage of it.

The White House at the time issued a statement saying, "This presents a hazard to every human being and a threat to the entire world by increasing the danger of nuclear holocaust."

Now the shoe is on the other foot. The Soviets can be expected to make their own propaganda mileage out of American testing.

intolerably at his doubt of it. So, to punish him for daring to question the reliability of her love, she broke her promise to him.

If we are parents who are proud of our self-sacrificing "goodness" to children, the chances are we break promises to them.

The giveaway is always the intense irritation we feel when we are reminded of an unfulfilled promise. Oh, we'll find a thousand excuses to explain why we couldn't fulfill our promises.

But the truth will probably be anger at the child who has presumed to question our ability to do all his thinking by asking, "Mom, don't forget your promise to..."

And so like Roger's mother, we must punish the presumption by breaking the promise.

None of us want, to break promises to children. But if we idealize the affection we give to them, I don't think we can help breaking them. The reminders of an unfulfilled obligation strikes too deeply at our pride in perfect parental performance to make it possible to respond to them reasonably. We just can't say to Roger, "O.K. I'm glad you reminded me about my promise. I might have forgotten your ladder."

Perfect parents can tolerate no reminders of obligation. But who wants to be perfect?

HIGHLIGHTS AND SIDELIGHTS FROM YOUR STATE CAPITOL

By Russell A. Mann, Jr.
Missouri Press News Service

Public Works Bill Tops 234 Million

The state's public bodies contracted last year for more than 234 million dollars worth of public works.

This was slightly more than the year before.

Public works projects included state highways, schools, water improvements, sewer construction and the like.

Take away the amount for state highways and the remaining cost amounts to slightly more than 102 million dollars. This is approximately 10 million dollars more than last year though the total number of projects amounted to less than the year before, some 704 as opposed to 725.

The figures are revealed in the annual summary of the Prevailing Wage Section of the State Industrial Commission. The section administers the controversial Prevailing Wage Act which requires that a county's "prevailing" wage be the minimum paid on all contracted public works.

The commission reports that wage determinations on 548 of the 704 public works projects outside of state highway work brought to its attention last year were made at union labor collective bargaining wage scales. Further, all state highway work contracted for is done at union labor collective bargaining wage scales due to provisions of the controversial wage law. Thus union scales were paid on projects amounting to 94 per cent of the total cost of all projects. Then projects amounting to some 2 per cent of the total public works bill included a combination of union scales and non-collective bargaining wage scales. This leaves public works projects amounting to some 4 per cent of the total of all projects on which non-collective bargaining rates were determined as a minimum to be paid. The 4 per cent amounted to $8,838,329, the commission reports.

Last year, the commission reports receiving 36 objections to its wage determinations. These resulted in nine public hearings being scheduled as provided by law of which one was cancelled when the objections were withdrawn.

Of the 36 objections, 27 were by union labor groups who sought in all cases increases in the wage scales which the commission had determined "prevailed."

Three cities filed objections, too. They were Farber, Steelville and Clark. All contended rates were too high. Steelville withdrew.

Others objecting were contractors or their trade groups and there was one firm selling gravel filing an objection.

In disposing of the 36 objections, the commission modified wage scales in 24 cases, reaffirmed what it had done in two cases, charged rates in one, dismissed two and there were seven withdrawn.

Half Million Maps Now Being Printed

In an attempt to keep abreast of a growing demand, the Missouri Highway Department this year is having 500,000 of its official state highway maps printed.

Last year, 450,000 maps were printed and the supply was exhausted at the end of the year, according to Gordon Johnson of the highway department's information section.

An increasing number of tourists into Missouri is cited as a major cause of increasing demand for official state road maps and Missourians themselves seem to be traveling about the state more which probably accounts for a part of the growing demand for maps. In addition, quite a few maps are given out to schools for use in classroom studies.

Visitors Hear Of 11 Capitols

Visitors to the State Capitol in Jefferson City have an opportunity to learn of ten capitols which preceded the present one which was occupied on Oct. 5, 1918.

The historical material has been published in leaflet form under the direction of Secretary of State Warren Hearnes.

Here are Missouri's ten capitols preceding the present one:

1. Mansion House in St. Louis where the convention met in June, 1820, to frame a constitution for the prospective state of Missouri.
2. Missouri Hotel in St. Louis where the first legislature met in 1820.
3. A small, two-story brick building in St. Charles where it was decided, among other things, to locate the capital in what is now Jefferson City. A building in Jefferson City located on the hill where the Executive Mansion now stands and upon which work began in 1825 to be completed a little more than two years later.

5. The Cole County courthouse where the legislature met after fire destroyed the 1825 capitol.
6. The first building to be located on Capitol Hill or the first hill west of where the Executive Mansion now stands and occupied first in 1840.
7. A building which was the outgrowth of the sixth capitol and which was finished in 1888.
8. Courtroom of the court en banc in the Supreme Court building where the state Senate met after a fire in 1911 had consumed the building on Capitol Hill.
9. St. Peter's Hall nearby where the House met.
10. A temporary building constructed in three months in 1912 located west of the site of the present capitol.

Everywhere, except in the United States, peanuts are grown mainly for their edible oil. Americans, however, have learned to eat and love peanut butter and here they are grown mainly for this purpose. Half the crop goes into peanut butter and only 10 per cent is crushed for oil. The rest of the crop is used for salted peanuts, candy and bakery goods.

March the Favorite Time For Starting Baby Chicks

COLUMBIA (Special) — The month of March is a favorite time for poultrymen to start baby chicks. It's a good time because farmers are not deeply involved with work in the field and can spare more time in taking care of baby chicks. Chicks started early in the season generally thrive better and will come into production in the fall when egg prices are normally higher.

I'd like to review a few steps in chick brooding that will help you in getting off to a good start. The most important thing, of course, is to have the brooder house ready when chicks arrive. Stoves should be set up and operating properly, chick feeders and waterers evenly spaced around the hovers, chick guard in place, two to four inches of fresh litter on the floor.

Most producers will be using gas brooders. They are very dependable and safe to use in all kinds of weather. But, there is one precaution that should be observed in using them. Remember that burning gas uses up the oxygen in the air and gives off carbon dioxide and moisture. If you have baby chicks in an air-tight room this can be very detrimental to the chick's health. It means that you need to provide plenty of fresh air in the building by tilting back windows or panels at the top.

If you plan to use other types of heating systems, make certain you understand the requirements and limitations of each. Heat lamps, for example, can be used for chick brooding but they are limited primarily to brooding in small numbers and during warm seasons of the year.

What about brooding temperature? A rule of thumb is to maintain a temperature of 90-92 degrees Fahrenheit under the hover for the first week. This is slightly less heat than what used to be recommended. We decrease the temperature about 5 degrees Fahrenheit each week. But, don't follow this rule exactly. It pays to watch the action of the chicks and regulate the heat accordingly to keep them comfortable.

I'd like to say a word or two about feed and water for baby chicks. If there is ever a time you should waste a little feed do it when chicks are one to three days of age. It pays to fill the small feeders full to the brim and spill over. Chicks should not have to hunt for feed. Most producers find it desirable to use paper plates or egg flats and put a handful or two of feed on each one to get birds eating early. These are removed from the pen after the birds learn to eat from the regular feeders.

Now, about water—don't doctor the water with any colored pills or home remedies. All chicks need for good health is pure, fresh water. The water utensils should be cleaned, scrubbed and disinfected prior to the time chicks arrive. After that, they should be cleaned and filled daily with fresh water. The water should not be too cold or chicks will not drink the amount they need.

Maintaining a dry litter in the brooder house is important. Ground corn cobs, shavings and sawdust make good litter and are generally available at low cost. Of course, you can use any of the commercial litters available on the market. Old litter may be reused if you have it. Simply remove the caked, damp litter and replace with an inch or so of new litter under each brooder. At the Missouri College of Agriculture they have been using old litter for many years and have found it to be better in many respects than new litter.

Not Till April 22

Late Easter Arrival May Be Bad Weather Solution

CHICAGO (AP) — Weather watchers puzzled by the length and severity of the current winter might find a clue in the calendar.

Easter, traditional guerdmark of spring, this year is on April 22, one of the latest dates on which it can fall. It won't occur on April 23 until the year 2000, and on April 24 until 2011.

It will not reach its latest possible date, April 25, until 2038.

Twice more in this century, in 1973 and 1984, it will recur on April 22.

Unlike Christmas, always on Dec. 25, this religious holiday can range over a period of 35 days, from March 22 to April 25, because of the complicated method of reckoning it.

The last time Easter fell on March 22 was in 1818. The next time will be in 2285. It fell on March 23 in 1913, on the 24th in 1940 and the 25th in 1951. It won't hit March 23 again until 2008. It will be on March 25 again in 2035 and 2046.

Complications over the observance are as old as Christendom itself. The Gospels note that Christ celebrated the Passover on Thursday although the priesthood observed it on Friday, the day of the Crucifixion.

Jews who embraced Christianity linked the Easter festival with the traditional Passover and believed it should be observed on the 14th of Nisan, first month of the Jewish calendar, regardless of the day of the week. Christians from among the Gentiles wanted the observance on Sunday when the Resurrection occurred.

The controversy raged into the 4th century. The church in the East followed the Jewish tradition, that in the West the Gentile.

In 325 the Council of Nicea decreed that Easter should be observed on the first Sunday after the full moon following the vernal equinox, the time when the sun crosses the equator into the Northern Hemisphere. The date of the equinox was to be fixed each year in Alexandria, Egypt, the center of astronomical science at the time.

The full moon was tied into the formula to give pilgrims the advantage of moonlight in their travels to shrines.

Still disagreement persisted. The time of the equinox varied according to longitude. March 21 was agreed upon arbitrarily as the date of the equinox but inaccuracies of the Julian calendar and the difficulty of reconciling the lunar calendar with the solar year stirred confusion.

More friction developed in 1582 when Pope Gregory promulgated the reformed calendar. The West, except for Great Britain and Ireland which stayed with the Julian calendar until 1752, accepted it readily. The East spurned any revision emanating from Rome.

Bulgaria, as a nation, held out on this point until 1916. The Greek Orthodox Church did not accept the Gregorian calendar until 1924 and many Eastern churches, including some in union with Rome, still adhere to the Julian calendar.

India Youth Pays Visit To Pettis County

Digamber Pradan, an extension service worker from India, recently spent the weekend in the home of Director-Extension Agricultural Agent Merle Vaughan and in the home of W. J. Lamm, Route 2.

Digamber is a graduate student at the University of Missouri in Columbia and was between semesters at the time of his visit.

While at Lamm's Digamber visited most of the rooms in the Smithton school, talking to the students and answering questions about his country. He will receive his master's degree at the close of the summer session at the University of Missouri.

He then will return to India to teach new extension workers. Their goal is to have 10 extension workers in each district. Their districts compare to American counties.

Digamber's state of Orissa has 300 districts, he said.

Farm Machinery Dealers Meet March 8 at MU

Tandem tractors, minimum tillage, and drying equipment will be three of the topics discussed at Missouri Farm Machinery Dealers' Day Thursday on the University of Missouri campus.

This will be the second year this event has been held, according to Ed Constien, extension agricultural engineer. Its purpose is to bring dealers up to date on new developments in the farm machinery field and to acquaint dealers with the research program of the College of Agriculture.

Also on the program, Albert Hagan, University agricultural economist, will discuss how to make farm machinery investments pay. The dealer's role in machinery management will be the topic of George Seferovich and Frank Buckingham, implement and tractor magazine, Kansas City.

The program is being sponsored by the University's agricultural engineering department and Extension Division in cooperation with two farm machinery dealer associations and local dealers.

Development Board Of Morgan County To Report On Study

The Morgan County Area Development Board will report on its past year's studies Tuesday evening, March 13, at an open meeting in the Courthouse, at 8 p.m.

Bill Caine, chairman of the board, says that the report will include studies of development needs in: industry and service employment, recreation, vocational training, roads, and other problems. The board was given some 12 problems to investigate when it was formed.

According to Caine the report is being made to representatives of Morgan County clubs and organizations, but that the public is urged to attend. Representatives of 25 organizations formed the development board in March 1961.

Atomic Power Plant For the Antarctic

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission says its atomic power plant at the South Pole is now in operation.

The medium-sized portable power plant at McMurdo Sound, the first in the antarctic, achieved a controlled, self-sustained chain reaction Saturday afternoon, the commission reported Sunday.

After further tests the plant will be used to produce 1,500 net kilowatts of electricity for McMurdo, the principal support base for all U.S. scientific activities in the icy continent.

Dates Ahead

Wednesday, March 7 — 10 a.m. Annual MO-KAN Market Hog Show, Kansas City Livestock Market.

Friday, March 9 — 1 p.m., 12th tested boar sale, Columbia.

Tuesday, March 13 — 10 a.m., annual meeting Mid-West Wool Growers, Kansas City.

Friday, March 16 — Feed Lot Tour over Pettis County.

Saturday, March 31 — Beef producers short course and steer show, University of Missouri, Columbia.

Friday, April 13 — Spring Livestock Day, University of Missouri, Columbia.

Two Feed Lot Tours March 16

Two cattle tours have been lined up for the feed lot tour on Friday, March 16. The morning tour will take in the extreme north and west part of Pettis County while the afternoon one will take in the east side around Smithton.

The morning tour will start at the farm of J. V. (Jim) Blackburn, a mile north of Houstonia at 9:15 a.m. Jim has 35 head of steers weighing a thousand pounds and up.

The second stop will be at Earl Clevenger's over on Highway 127 a few miles south of Sweet Springs. Clevenger has 31 calves weighing from 700 to 950 pounds.

The farm of John and Eldon Jones will be the third stop that morning. The Jones farm is located about two miles south of Stokely and in the extreme northwest corner of LaMonte township.

The group will finish at Jones' in time to get to Sedalia for lunch. The first stop after dinner will be at George Green's.

The George Green farm is located about five miles east of Sedalia on Highway 50 and a mile and a half south. George has 31 calves that weigh around 850 pounds. The farm of Jack and Leo Smith will be the second stop. It is located south off Highway 50, just east of where Highway 135 leaves it going south.

The Smiths have 68 steers on self-feeders. They weigh from a thousand pounds up. A group of top quality Hereford calves will be seen at the third stop at Lester Dittmer's. The route will be back to Smithton, south on Highway W to road DD a few miles south of Smithton.

From there the route leads southeasterly about four miles to Blackjack School. Dittmer lives just in back of the school a short distance. He has 31 of these Colorado steers weighing 850 to 900 pounds as well as 20 home-grown calves that are somewhat smaller.

The tour should end around 3:45 p.m. Persons making the tour include Gordon Gillespie, head steer salesman for Producers at East St. Louis; Melvin Bradley, extension animal husbandman from the university; and Glen Grimes, extension livestock marketing specialist from the university.

We hope to have maps of the routes in next week's paper.

Kahrs Brothers Have Top Selling Boar

I have just received the results of Missouri's Fifth Annual Swine Producers Association Barrow Show held at Columbia, Feb. 16, and the boar sale that was held the next day. The top selling boar was consigned by Kahrs Brothers of Smithton.

There were 58 boars sold at this sale and they averaged $202.41. No boars came to Pettis County but several went to neighboring ones. Four went to Bates County, three to Saline and one to Cooper.

Kahrs Brothers also showed up quite well in the barrow show winning first, 13th, and 14th in the class of middleweight barrows and tenth and 12th in the class of welterweight barrows.

Twelfth Boar Sale, March 9

The Missouri Swine Evaluation Station's Twelfth Tested Boar Sale is being held at 1 p.m. on Friday, March 9, in the Livestock Judging Pavilion at Columbia.

There are a total of 51 boars being offered. They include three Yorkshires, four Poles, nine Berkshires, 12 Hampshires and 23 Durocs. On these boars the feed efficiency or feed required to put on a hundred pounds of gain runs from a low of 276 pounds of feed to 325 pounds of feed.

I believe Dr. Melvin Bradley told us at the District Livestock Meeting that the average Missouri hog took about 480 pounds of feed to put on a hundred pounds of gain. On that basis if you use one of these boars on a good group of gilts you should be able to improve the efficiency of your own hog program.

We have one copy of the sale catalog in the office. We'll be glad to have you stop and look at it or you can order a copy for yourself by writing R. K. Leavett, director, Swine Evaluation Station, Mumford Hall, Columbia, Mo.

Steers to Columbia

Show March 31

We mentioned last week that a committee of local cattle folks were looking for steers for a show at Columbia as part of Beef Producers Workshop at Columbia, March 31.

There are two classes. One is for a county representative steer and it can be a home grown or a purchased one. Any producer can show in the other class which is for steers that have been produced and fed on the home farm.

The committee selected a steer at Lester Dittmer's as the county entry. They also selected one at Jack and Leo Smith's which will be Smith's own entry as well as alternate county entry. Both of these steers will be seen on the cattle tour the afternoon of March 16.

Results of Bull Test

The results of the Missouri Beef Cattle Testing Stations First Test have just been received at the Extension Office. This test ran from May to November, 1961.

Information on these bulls and a steer from the same sire is available at the Extension Office. This information includes adjusted weaning weight, adjusted daily gain and score at weaning.

Under an official 140 day test we have average daily gain, feed per one hundred weight gain, score at end of test and an index. We also have an average daily gain from birth to end of the test.

Apparently the results of the test were very satisfactory and the bulls coming off the test sold well. The index is arranged from a low of 81 to a high of 125.9.

This index number represents a combination of average daily gain, feed per one hundred pounds of gain in weight and score. Thirty per cent of the index number depends on rate of gain, 30 per cent on feed per hundred pounds of weight gain and 40 per cent on final type score.

They are now accepting applications for the next test.

Quality Milk

We have just received several copies of a little folder entitled "Quality Milk." This folder is one of a series being put out each month by the dairy department at the university as a promotion program in cooperation with dairy processors.

Berlin-Cohan TV Tributes Are Pleasant

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Irving Berlin and the late George M. Cohan have written so many of the nation's best loved songs that almost any program which just plays the familiar tunes is bound to be pleasant.

And pleasant—faint praise—were two weekend television shows built out of the work of the two men. Sunday night's NBC's "Regards to George M. Cohan" was the more ambitious of the two. It attempted, with a notable lack of success, to combine tele-techniques — old photographs, news reel clips, theater posters, and earnest narration — with gay musical production numbers. They didn't combine.

A talented but obviously uncomfortable cast including Peter Lind Hayes tried to make something of the quaint old numbers. Two really big Cohan songs—"Give My Regards to Broadway" and "I'm A Yankee Doodle Dandy"—were presented in clips from an old James Cagney movie—and were the high points of the show.

Irving Berlin's music was the subject of Friday night's Telephone Hour. The production suffered from a sort of stiffness and a lack of style characteristic of this series. It even affected vivacious Ginger Rogers and Janet Blair.

Ed Sullivan now has pretty Barbara Britton as his saleswoman chum instead of Julia Meade. But he had time troubles Sunday night.

Comedian Henry Youngman only got enough time for about two mild jokes. But Phyllis Diller rambled on for an eternity about the discomforts of eating in a Japanese restaurant, getting fall down drunk from two much sake—but the studio audience, judging from its stony silence just wasn't with her.

"Bus Stop," the ABC series which has been suffering from an overdose of bad publicity because of one unpleasant show, came up Sunday night with an attention-holding, well-done suspense tale.

monthly folder to present to each of their dairymen.

This particular folder covers such topics as "Cleaning and Sanitizing Comes First," "The Importance of Cleaning and Sanitizing," and "Cleaning and Sanitizing Methods."

Under the latter heading they list routine cleaning of milking machines and utensils, cleaning pipeline systems and care of milking machine rubber parts.

Copies of this folder are available at the Extension Office.

Brucellosis Testing Progressing Well

The state veterinarian's office has just furnished us with a map showing the progress of Brucellosis testing in the state of Missouri. Most of you will remember that Pettis County has just completed a three year period on a modified certified status and veterinarians are now making final tests to qualify the county for its second three year accreditation.

There are only six counties in the state that have made no effort to start testing. They include Atchison, Nodaway, Barton, Audrain, Pike and Lewis. There are 11 other counties in the process of doing area testing. They include two of our neighboring counties, Saline and Benton, St. Clair, Laclede, Howell, Shannon, Mississippi, Clay, DeKalb, Knox and Schuyler.

All the rest are on a modified certified basis. I believe Pettis County ranked 28th in the state in reaching that status.

Pippa Scott and Howard Duff were the stars.

Saturday night's "The Defenders" about extortion, was one of the series best and made a neat little moral point.

Record Claimed By Disc Jockey

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — A Selma disc jockey claims a world record of 202 hours, 48 minutes and 47 seconds for marathon radio broadcasting.

A physician said Dan Morgan of station WCWC apparently suffered no ill effects from his stint of more than eight days.

Morgan, 27, ended his marathon Saturday night. Colleagues said he made the broadcast with only brief interruptions for food and physical examinations.

The station said Morgan bettered the 200-hour broadcast mark set by disc jockey Peter Tripp for station WMGM from a booth in New York's Times Square in January 1959.

Recovery Now a Year Old; Looking to More Advances

(This is the second of two articles on the state of the U.S. economy.)

BUSINESS MIRROR

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The business recovery celebrates its first birthday this month with some people calling it an old man already. Others think that after a stumble or two in the early weeks of the year, he's just ready to take some more firm steps forward.

They are cheered by a healthy volume of auto sales. They note that steel mills and many makers of durable goods have backlogs of orders to keep them going for some time.

Total employment is high and the rate of unemployment fell in January. Consumers appear willing to continue to spend, even if choosy as to what they buy. Government spending seems sure to increase, both for goods and in government payrolls. Many economists feel that the momentum of other factors of the economy is far from spent.

Yet they must admit that January brought a falloff of disappointing statistics.

Whether it was bad weather or business fatigue, there were slight downturns in retail sales, personal income, industrial output. To many, primed for a continuing advance by exciting official predictions, this was a shock. But others call it comparable to the bobbles in the recovery last September.

Here is the reasoning of those who think there should be a good advance before the summer lull—and then a stronger forward spurt in the fall:

JOBS — Bad weather snarled outdoor activity and hampered some inside work but total employment fell below 6 per cent of the labor force for the first time in months.

SPENDING — Consumers are laying out as many dollars as ever and taking on a little more installment debt. Much of the money goes for services and soft goods, but some big ticket items like autos are getting more now.

NEW ORDERS — Makers of durable goods report a rise in new orders and the biggest backlog in two years.

STEEL — Orders and output have risen sharply. Production so far this year totals 19 million tons, compared with 11.9 million tons in the like period of 1961. The big question is how much of the ordering is hedging against a possible strike this summer and how much is for normal use this spring, based on expectations of better business for the consumers themselves. The mills say they have enough orders now to keep them busy for many weeks.

AUTOS — New car sales from Jan. 1 to Feb. 20 came to 791,411 units, a gain of 31 per cent over the previous year. Industry optimists think sales will be even higher when better weather lures snowbound citizens to the highways. And a Federal Reserve Board survey of consumer intentions shows more families than usual say they plan to buy a new car this year.

HISTORY — Recoveries usually show a bobble or two, like the one in January, before they run their course. Economists say that forces that historically start late in a recovery should still have several months of momentum left this time — they cite inventory building and new orders.

And they stress that slips in the industrial production index, in personal incomes, and in the length of the average work week, such as disturbed people in January, often are due to special and temporary causes. This time it could be the weather rather than any real faltering yet in the fundamental business upturn.
